Not either/or. Always both.

Two power sources. One relentless response. The all-new Audi RS 5 Sedan does not ask you to choose between electric power and a V6. It gives you both.
A 510 hp twin-turbo V6 delivers the sound and intensity of RS performance, while a 130 kW electric motor adds instant torque from the moment you ask for it. Combined, they unleash 639 hp and 825 Nm, sending the RS 5 from 0 to 100 km/h in just 3.6 seconds.

There is intelligence behind all that performance. The RS 5 Sedan can travel up to 84 km in all-electric mode, but its hybrid technology is just as focused on dynamics. quattro with Dynamic Torque Control balances power between the axles, while electromechanical torque vectoring actively manages the rear wheels.
The result is stronger traction, greater rear-end agility and a car that feels ready to attack the next corner before you are.

Oasis of light and personalisation.

The RS 5 Sedan cockpit is built to shift with your mood. Let the light in through the panoramic glass roof, or adjust its transparency for a more focused atmosphere. Three-zone climate control keeps each area of the cabin comfortable, while the augmented reality head-up display keeps driving information directly in sight.

The passenger has a dedicated 10.9-inch display, while Bang & Olufsen Premium Sound fills the cabin with rich, immersive audio. Save your personalised RS driving preferences and the car can recall them whenever the road demands something more.

RS like never before.

There is no mistaking the all-new Audi RS 5 Sedan for anything else. Its presence starts with configurable daytime running lights, offering eight distinctive signatures including an RS-specific design that gives the front its own identity.

From there, the wider stance, sculpted RS bumpers, honeycomb grille and updated badging give the car a harder, more purposeful character from every angle. Carbon exterior packages bring either high-gloss or matt camouflage finishes to key details, adding another layer of intensity without overworking the shape.

And for the most focused expression, the optional Audi Sport package sharpens the look further with RS bumpers plus, forged 21-inch Audi Sport wheels and exclusive carbon elements.
